Dutchland Plastics to Consolidate Operations
Efficiencies of Modern East Plant Make Move Possible

Oostburg, WI (October 6, 2009) – Dutchland Plastics of Oostburg, WI today announced the consolidation of their two Oostburg plants into their East Plant, an existing production facility. Dutchland’s East Plant has more space (160,000 sq. ft) and a more modern, open layout. The move will make Dutchland more competitive and positioned better for the future.

“The move to consolidate all of our operations under one roof will strengthen Dutchland Plastics,” said Sara Suckow, Dutchland’s Director of Human Resources. “Oostburg has always been home to Dutchland. This move allows us to stay at home and be stronger and better positioned than ever.”

All of the employees who have worked at the West Plant will be transferred and teamed up with the workforce at Dutchland’s East Plant.

This consolidation will allow Dutchland to address new business initiatives across the country and compete more efficiently in existing business sectors. It is a commitment to Dutchland’s growth and to its employees.

Dutchland Plastics is a leading custom manufacturer of rotational and blow molded plastic products. Founded in 1967, today Dutchland Plastics provides product and services around the world. Dutchland Plastics is a private, family-owned business that is in its second generation of ownership.
